

How to get into the city

Arrival from Schönefeld Airport – destination Humboldt University Berlin, main building

Schönefeld Airport is directly connected to the Berlin S-Bahn and regional train system via the train station „S Flughafen Berlin-Schönefeld Bhf“. Tickets for transport are available at the ticket machines on the platform. Regardless of which of the following proposals you chose, you need an ABC ticket (2,80€) that has to be validated before departure at special machines on the platform that look like little yellow-white boxes.

S-Bahn

From here you can take line S9 (destination „Pankow“) until train station „Ostkreuz“, which will take approximately 30 minutes. Change here to lines S5 (destination „Westkreuz“), line S7 (destination „Potsdam Hbf“), or line S75 (destination „Spandau“). All these lines will bring you to the train station „Friedrichstraße“ in less than 15 minutes.

From here it is a short walk down Friedrichstraße, turn left on to Unter den Linden, until you reach the main entrance of Humboldt University.

Regional trains

Roughly every half hour several regional trains lead from „S Flughafen Berlin-Schönefeld Bhf“ directly into the centre of the city via „Friedrichstraße“. You can take the RE train with the destination „Roßlau/ Elbe“ or the RB train with the destination „Nauen“, both need approximately 30 minutes to the centre, i.e. „Friedrichstraße“.
