Part 2:

On the role of former students and universities in enhancing student mobility

STUDENT MOBILITY IN A DIGITAL WORLD

Final Report of the VICTORIOUS Project

“In general information provision by universities towards visiting students is weak. It is hard to find, often in the local language and there is insufficient focus on the needs of the visiting students.”

STUDENT MOBILITY IN A DIGITAL WORLD

Final Report of the VICTORIOUS Project

“Most university International Relations Offices considered that they had good websites, although this is not a view born out by our student data.”

STUDENT MOBILITY IN A DIGITAL WORLD

Final Report of the VICTORIOUS Project

“Many universities need to significantly upgrade their information provision.”

“Many universities need to significantly reconsider their information provision strategies.“

Hi together,

first of all, this is a great page, interesting for former Erasmus-students and important for future-Erasmus-students! Basically, I don't have any doubts that everybody who seriously thinks about going abroad will decide to stay in his or her country after reading just a few of the comments here :-) . Definitely not after reading THIS comment ...

I've been to Aberystwyth in Wales, Great-Britain, Europe for two semesters, September 2005 till June 2006 - and it was (so far ?) the best time in my life !!!

Why this? Was it due to the fact that you can study a language simply alongside? Is it due to the fact that you meet fantastic people and that you have the most enjoyable ecause you have a nice stay in u get the possibility to have so Is it because you get the urope" without any borders? Is us of you ? Is it cause the in Europe ? Is it due to the chatting, of partying? I tell you f the combination of all this!

Why this? Was it due to the fact that you can study a language simply alongside? Is it due to the fact that you meet fantastic people and that you have the most enjoyable chats ever for hours? Is it because you change? Is it because you have a nice stay in a absolutely beautiful place and country? Is it cause you get the possibility to have so many experiences of culture, live, love and friendship? Is it because you get the possibility to know why Europe should be really "one Europe" without any borders? Is because all your friends who stayed at home are jealous of you ? Is it cause the drive on the wrong side there and have the worst food in Europe ? Is it due to the fact that you really enjoy every day of life, of studying, of chatting, of partying? I tell you what you probably already guessed: Is it because all of the combination of all this!
